Caleb Donavon

Weekly Summary

This week, the team had to rethink the plan for this project. The faculty advisor for the CS team working on this project stated that the CS team will not be splitting any of their implementation with another group. They will have their own analysis, design, and implementation. All parties involved in this project are aware of this new development. For this team, the remainder of the week was spent refactoring a previous plan that only included this team to meet new needs and requirements.

Accomplishments From Past Week
- Made an agreement with CS team that there would be no splitting of work
- Discussed practicing final presentation, made plan to complete run-through this upcoming week

Pending issues (if applicable)
- Start project from scratch or build off of CS team progress once they have finished their implementation
